

Treat Yourself

This time of year it seems everything sparkles! Midnight stars, fresh-fallen snow, candles in windows. Why not celebrate yourself and the season—with a sparkling new smile? You might be surprised to discover just how easily many cosmetic defects can be corrected, returning dazzle to teeth—literally, overnight!

HOLIDAY REFLECTIONS

For most Americans, the holiday season is a time of both anticipation and reflection. We look backward over the past year while eagerly awaiting what is to come in the year ahead—for ourselves, our family, our community, and our nation.

The season abounds with images that find a mirror in every mind. Despite obvious problems and unrest both at home and abroad, we hope for greater peace and prosperity. These sentiments are echoed across the land in a spirit of goodwill toward every man, woman, and child.

What better time to thank you for your loyal support of our practice? At this time of year, we become aware of how our office is very much like a family, one that extends to each of our patients. Having the opportunity to care for you, your friends and family, means more to us than you may know.

We take pride in our work, and are always gratified to see it reflected in your smile. May everyone you love enjoy the warmth and comfort of your smile this holiday season. ■
